

Why is there an error to play media content with Linux Foresight out-of-the-box?

Question: Why is there an error message when I am trying to play media in Linux Foresight operating system out of the box.

Answer: Mostly, user needs to download some “codec” patches. Because of legal issue, computer maker should not include these “codec” in pre-installed system. To download the “codec”, please click on Accessories – Terminal – press enter.

Once the Terminal is opened, type “sudo conary update group-codecs”. Next, please provide your system username and password.

Internet access is required

Next, it should automatically update the “codec” patches. Accept to continue if prompted

Or, type “sudo conary update all” to download patches that also support variety of music formats.
